

In illness the “evil” the negative, the infective becomes incarnate in the flesh in the body finding its fulfillment in the fever and suppuration.

In aging too the decrepit and arthritic the gnarled joints and deformities reflect the inevitable movement towards decay and death atrophy and defilement.

Satanic forces chthonic forces slowly occupy the territory once proud of its youthful vigor as the singular expression common to myriad diseases and ailments.

As one feels this process going through the body daily one must learn to accept the infirmity bit by bit accepting the divine decree that man shall live that immortal Adam shall be spared immediacy of sentence but also die, slowly.

The divine contains both light and dark an antinomy of sefirotic incompatibilities uncanny and exasperating and we are the bearers of this divine dark side mostly in our suffering and broken lives and in the aging body in illness.

A spiritual opportunity arises then in dis-ease to come a little closer to this divine incarnation sheltered as we are normally from satanic mills for we are able to manifest the divine’s need in our bodies in our degeneration to express itself in the minor key.

In accepting this dark side of spirituality and in the deep gnawing pain in the refusal to be anesthetized for a moment longer we find rest from the pious and the pompous theologies and Holier-than-Thou sermons from the naive emotional betrayal of wholeness for the naive Good God.

Finally God will find a bit of rest from the projections of perfection we have hoisted on Him for centuries and thank us kindly for sharing in this deep secret the wounding of His beloved the petty hurts He and we share as we dig the knife ever so deeper into our loved ones then awaken to see the damage.

Finally He will share what has been so long on His mind about that fateful historical decision to let Satan loose in a dangerous game that cost so many so much.

Let the pain linger a little longer so that we can all come a little closer to this divine opening of the secret chest where all will be made understandable in fantasy and all will be justified in humor even though both parties will be weeping tears that will cause a tsunami in the oceans.
